Anondita Medicare Ltd — Concall Tracker

Condom & sexual-wellness manufacturer (NSE SME: ANONDITA) • Report date: 11 Jul 2026 • Does the business have a durable earning trigger, and has management been consistent?

1. Snapshot

What it does, in one line: Anondita makes latex condoms at its own factory in Noida (Uttar Pradesh) — selling in bulk to the Government of India's public health programme, under its own retail brand "Cobra", and now for export. It also sells a smaller basket of allied sexual-wellness and healthcare items (gloves, pregnancy/ovulation kits, contraceptive pills) largely through a subsidiary. It earns money the simple way: make condoms cheaply on in-house-built machines and sell them at a healthy margin.

FIGURE	VALUE	PLAIN-ENGLISH READ
Market value (market cap)	₹2,099 cr	What the whole company is worth on the stock market today — large for its size of sales.
Sales, FY26	₹112 cr	Total money from selling products in the year to Mar 2026 — up about 84% from ₹61 cr the year before. (The company's own reported standalone revenue was even higher, ~₹137 cr.)
Net profit, FY26	₹27 cr	What was left as profit after all costs and tax — up from ₹11 cr, roughly a 2.4x jump.
Operating margin (OPM)	35%	Out of every ₹100 of sales, ₹35 is operating profit before interest, tax and wear-and-tear — a fat margin for a manufacturer.
Price-to-earnings (P/E)	78	The share costs 78 times one year's profit — very expensive; the price is betting heavily on future growth, not today's earnings.
Return on capital (ROCE)	40%	For every ₹100 of money put into the business, it earns ₹40 a year — genuinely high, the business is efficient.
Borrowings, FY26	₹33 cr	Total debt owed to lenders — modest against its size, not a debt-heavy company.
Promoter holding	62.4%	The founding Ghosh family owns nearly two-thirds — high "skin in the game".

2. Concall coverage

No concall transcripts were available on Screener — this report is based on a global web deep-dive. However, the company is newly listed (Sept 2025) and held its first-ever earnings conference call on 27 May 2026 (for H2 and full-year FY26); the transcript is published on its own website and was read in full for this report. So coverage is actually richer than a typical micro-cap, but it is only one call — there is no multi-year run of calls to judge story-drift against.

SOURCE	WHAT IT GAVE US
Company FY26 earnings-call transcript (27 May 2026, on anonditamedicare.com)	Primary source — capacity, order book, guidance, margins, cash-flow admission, export plans.
IPO prospectus & IPO data (Chittorgarh, Finowings, InvestorGain)	Business model, plant, IPO terms, use of funds, FY23–FY25 financials, promoter background.
Exchange filings / news (Business Standard, ScanX, Trade Brains, ThePrint)	FY26 results, recent export & government order wins, South Africa tender qualification.
Screener.in financial tables	Multi-year sales, profit, margins, cash flow, shareholding.

★ Latest update highlights — FY26 results & debut earnings call (May 2026)

- Profit more than doubled. FY26 net profit ₹27 cr (reported standalone ₹34 cr) versus ₹11 cr — the company kept far more of each sale as profit as volumes and margins rose.
- Capacity nearly doubled. Condom-making capacity went from ~562 million pieces a year to ~806 million, with a further ~250 million line under construction for FY27 — more machines running means room to grow sales sharply without a big new factory.
- First real export order in hand. A ₹43 cr export order from South Africa (under a 5-year government condom tender) is being shipped by Sept 2026 — that single order is roughly a third of last year's entire sales, and it is real, not just talk.
- Big, bold guidance. Management publicly targets ~₹1,000 cr revenue within about two years — that implies sales roughly 7–9x today's, an extremely aggressive promise to keep in mind.
- The catch — profit is not turning into cash. Despite ₹34 cr profit, cash actually generated from operations was only ~₹10 cr, because government customers pay after ~120 days and Q4 sales were heavy — on paper it earns well, but the money is stuck in unpaid bills.

Business mix & capacity (quick facts)

- Customer mix (FY26): ~40–42% Government of India tenders, ~58–60% own-brand "Cobra" retail — essentially all sales are domestic today; exports are only just starting.
- Domestic vs export: Almost 100% domestic in FY26; management wants exports (led by South Africa) to drive most future growth — the export story is a plan, not yet a proven revenue stream.
- Capacity use: The newly expanded 806-million-piece capacity was guided to run at ~75% to start — there is real headroom to lift output, and a new 250-million line is being added on top.

3. Earning-trigger thesis ★

The trigger: Anondita is a low-cost condom manufacturer that has just doubled its capacity and is trying to convert that into an export growth engine — anchored by a 5-year South African government tender (about 1 billion pieces a year, of which it targets a ~25% slice) plus a first-mover push into female condoms. It builds its own condom machines in-house (claims a patent), which keeps costs low and margins high (~35% operating margin, ~40% return on capital). Profit has genuinely inflected — up ~2.4x in FY26 — and the first ₹43 cr export order is already shipping. The driver is real and beginning to play out; the debate is how much of the sky-high guidance actually converts.

TRIGGER	WHAT MANAGEMENT SAID	EVIDENCE SO FAR	HORIZON	STRENGTH
Capacity expansion	562m → 806m pieces/yr, +250m line coming; runs ~75%	Expansion done; capex ₹24 cr of ₹62 cr spent; profits already up 2.4x	Now → FY27	Strong capacity is live, not a promise
South Africa export tender	5-yr, ~1bn pieces/yr; target ~25%; could add ₹250–500 cr	Qualified as vendor; ₹43 cr + ₹5 cr orders in hand, shipping by Sep 2026	FY27–FY30	Moderate real order, but scale still to prove
Female condoms	Brazil-registered; target 240m pieces; "₹330 cr sales, ₹150 cr profit"	Only trial production done; no revenue yet	FY27+	Unproven all promise, zero delivery so far
Certifications (MDSAP, SABS)	Open the door to Brazil, Canada, US, Australia, South Africa	Achieved; UN/WHO pre-qualification still pending	Ongoing	Moderate gate cleared, sales must follow

4. Management consistency scorecard

Note: this is the company's first earnings call, so there is no long history of "what they promised last year vs delivered". The read below leans on the multi-year financial record and IPO-time statements.

PERIOD	WHAT WAS PROMISED / SET OUT	WHAT ACTUALLY HAPPENED	VERDICT
FY23 → FY26	Grow the condom business and lift margins	Sales grew ~4x (₹36 cr → ₹137 cr reported); profit rose from near-zero to ₹34 cr	Delivered
IPO (Sep 2025)	Use fresh funds to expand capacity	Capacity lifted 562m → 806m; new line under construction	Delivered
FY26 call	Win export orders (South Africa)	Qualified + ₹43 cr order in hand and shipping — early proof	Partly / early
FY26 call	Collect cash faster; ~₹1,000 cr in ~2 yrs; female condoms ₹150 cr profit	Cash conversion still weak (~31%); the big targets are unproven guidance	Too early

Narrative drift: The story has been consistent and it has grown sensibly — condoms first, then capacity, now exports and adjacent products. That is a logical build, not a story that changes every year. The worry is tone: the debut call was strikingly promotional, with near-"guarantees" of very large profits and a ~₹1,000 cr target that implies sustained ~100% growth. That over-promising, plus profits not yet turning into cash, is exactly what the next 2–3 quarters must disprove. Because it is a single, first call, the honesty of management can only be judged as promising but unproven.

5. Bottom line — two verdicts

Durable earning trigger? → YES

There is a concrete, still-live driver: capacity has actually been doubled (not just promised), the business earns fat 35% margins on low-cost in-house machinery, profit has already inflected ~2.4x, and a real ₹43 cr export order is shipping. That is a genuine trigger with early evidence it is playing out. The heavy caveat is that the size of the prize — the ₹1,000 cr guidance and female-condom dream — is still mostly promise, and the export ramp is essentially one country (South Africa) for now.

Management consistent? → MAYBE

On the record so far, management has delivered — 4x sales growth, capacity built as promised, first export order won. But this is only the company's first-ever earnings call, so there is no multi-year promised-vs-delivered trail to trust, and the tone is aggressively promotional with hard profit "guarantees". Combined with weak cash conversion (profit not becoming cash), government-receivable lag, and an unresolved transfer of some assets from the promoter's old proprietorship into the listed company, the consistency case is credible but unproven — wait-and-see.

Sources: Anondita FY26 earnings-call transcript (anonditamedicare.com, 27 May 2026); Screener.in; IPO data (Chittorgarh, Finowings, InvestorGain); results & order-win coverage (Business Standard, ScanX, Trade Brains, ThePrint). Figures use Screener's consolidated tables unless noted; the company's reported standalone FY26 revenue was ~₹137 cr / profit ~₹34 cr. This is not investment advice — do your own due diligence.