SEAMEC Ltd

Concall Tracker, Q1-2027 update · builds on the Q4-2026 report · new call read: Q1 FY27 (14 Aug 2026) · Report date 6 Nov 2026 · NSE: SEAMECLTD

What the business does: SEAMEC owns specialised offshore ships, mostly diving-support and multi-support vessels, and hires them out to service oil and gas fields under the sea (inspection, repair, maintenance and construction). Its main customer is ONGC, with a growing foothold at Saudi Aramco. Ships sit on fixed-rate charters, so income is contracted but seasonal, because construction work stops in the monsoon. The promoter group (HAL Offshore / MMG) owns about 73%.

1. Snapshot

Q1 FY27 revenue (consolidated)	Rs 297 cr vs Rs 211 cr	Sales for Apr-Jun 2026, up 41% on a year ago. More ships were working, even in the usually weak monsoon season.
Q1 FY27 operating profit (EBITDA)	Rs 124 cr, ~42% margin	Rs 42 of every Rs 100 of sales is profit before interest, tax and depreciation. Right inside the 40-42% band management promises.
Q1 FY27 net profit (consolidated)	Rs 81 cr vs Rs 76 cr	Only up about 7%, far slower than sales. Part of the reason given was that the Paladin vessel was stuck idle but still costing money.
FY26 full year (context)	Sales ~Rs 1,000 cr · profit ~Rs 253 cr	The record year this quarter builds on.
Market value / P/E (Screener, Nov 2026)	Rs 3,755 cr · ~13.7x	You pay under 14 rupees for each rupee of yearly profit. Cheap for a business earning ~20% on capital (ROCE 20%, ROE 21%).

★ Latest concall highlights: Q1 FY27 (call held 14 Aug 2026)

- Strong monsoon quarter. Revenue Rs 297 cr, up 41%, and EBITDA margin about 42%. Usually this is the weak season, so this is good. Net profit only crept up, to Rs 81 cr.
- Paladin is back. The vessel was stranded in Dubai after a dry dock when the Middle East conflict closed the route. It's now back in India and working again, so it should add to Q2 instead of costing money.
- SEAMEC ANANT purchase. Binding deal with the promoter's HAL Offshore at USD 70 million, paid roughly half from own funds and half from loans. Ownership to pass by end August 2026, then about a month of paperwork before it restarts its existing ONGC contract. Expected to run at 95-98% of days once working.
- Guidance. Growth of 15-20% a year for the next three to five years, with margins of 40-42% this year and next. That's a slight widening of the old "about 15%" for FY27.
- Tone: upbeat but guarded. Strong demand for diving-support ships for three to five years, Saudi Arabia and possibly Iran as growth markets. But all ships are already busy, so more growth means buying more ships. A new CFO, Ashok Verma, took the call.

Business mix & capacity

India vs overseas: No new split given on this call. Last year roughly 85-90% of income came from India (mostly ONGC) and the rest from Saudi Aramco. Plain read: it's still mostly an ONGC story.
Contract mix: About 35-40% of contracts are short, seasonal construction (EPC) jobs; the rest are medium to long-term repair and maintenance charters.
Capacity: Management says every vessel is deployed, apart from the known monsoon idle (Seamec III, Seamec Princess in dry dock, and the Glorious barge). Plain read: there's no spare capacity. ANANT is the next addition and growth after that needs fresh capital.

★ Since our last report

Builds on the Q4-2026 report (call of 19 May 2026). Prior verdicts: Trigger YES, Consistency MAYBE.

Prior read	What we said then	What the new call shows	Movement
Trigger: offshore up-cycle + more ships	Live and proven, record FY26	Revenue +41% in a seasonally weak quarter; demand called strong for three to five years	Confirmed
Consistency	Steady core, drifting sub-plots	Core story intact, but ANANT timing was given as Q2 and Q3 by two people on the same call; a new CFO again	Unchanged
Paladin stuck in Dubai	Earning nothing until the route reopens	Back in India, contract resumed	Improving
SEAMEC ANANT	"One quarter away", repeatedly pushed out	Binding agreement, USD 70m, closing end August; earning from Q2 or Q3	On-track (slight slip)
FY27 guide ~15%, margin 40-42%	Deliberately conservative	Q1 above it; guide now 15-20% a year for three to five years	On-track
Promoter fee (~4% of revenue) under Grant Thornton review	Value leaking to promoter, needs watching	Report called "satisfactory" but won't be shared; the 4% fee continues	Unchanged (no fix)
Five dry docks in FY27	Downtime risk	Princess being dry-docked during the monsoon so no revenue is lost	On-track

Verdict change: both verdicts unchanged. Paladin's return and the ANANT deal take away two of last quarter's worries. The promoter fee and the shifting timelines keep consistency at Maybe.

★ 3. Earning-trigger thesis

The driver is still the offshore up-cycle. Few diving-support ships are being built worldwide, oil companies want more under-sea work done, and SEAMEC keeps adding vessels and putting them straight onto fixed-rate ONGC or Aramco contracts. This quarter showed it working even in the monsoon. The next legs are ANANT joining the fleet, Paladin earning again, two new ONGC maintenance contracts that use no capital of SEAMEC's own, and the Middle East. India's push for more domestic oil exploration helps, but management itself says that's three to five years out.

Trigger	What management said	Evidence so far	Time horizon	Strength	Change since last report
Fleet expansion	Add ANANT; ~Rs 1,000 cr of buys in two years under a DG Shipping MOU	ANANT binding deal signed; fleet fully deployed	Q2-Q3 FY27, ongoing	Strong	↑ deal now binding
Charter rates / demand	Strong demand for three to five years; Iran reopening could add more	Q1 revenue +41%; no specific rate hikes quoted	2-5 yrs	Moderate	Unchanged
ONGC O&M contracts (Samudra Prabha / Sevak)	High return since no own capital is tied up	Running, continuing through monsoon	To 2028	Moderate	Unchanged
Middle East (Aramco)	Key growth market, more enquiries after qualifying	Swordfish working about a year; no new contract named	Medium term	Unproven	Unchanged
Samudra Manthan (govt oil push)	Helps the whole chain	Policy only	3-5 yrs	Unproven	New

4. Management consistency scorecard

Period	What was promised	What actually happened	Verdict
FY25 → FY26	"FY26 will be the year of delivery"	Record FY26, profit more than doubled	Delivered
May 2026	FY27 ~15% growth, 40-42% margin	Q1 revenue +41%, margin ~42%	On track
FY25-FY26	SEAMEC ANANT "next quarter"	Binding agreement only now; restart quoted as Q2 and Q3 on the same call	Partly / late
May 2026	Paladin back once the sea route opens	Back and working by August	Delivered
FY24 calls	Old contracts to reprice up sharply	Shrunk to single digits earlier; this call management denied ever implying a higher rate for Seamec II	Softened
FY25-FY26	Independent review of the promoter fee	Done, called satisfactory, not published; fee unchanged	Unresolved
FY26	Exit bulk carriers; sell Gallant	One bulk carrier being liquidated; Gallant sale due September after shareholder vote	On track

Narrative drift: the main story hasn't moved in three years and it keeps paying off. The drift is in the details, as before. Vessel dates slide a quarter at a time, an earlier OSV purchase (Pearl) was quietly dropped into arbitration, and the speaker line-up changed once more with a new CFO. Management got a little defensive when pressed on the Seamec II rate and on why the fee review won't be shared.

5. Bottom line

Durable earning trigger? → YES

vs last quarter: unchanged

Nothing broke it. A monsoon quarter with sales up 41%, Paladin working again and ANANT finally on a binding contract all support it. The weak spot is that profit didn't keep pace with sales this quarter, and that growth beyond ANANT needs more borrowed or retained money for ships.

Management consistent? → MAYBE

vs last quarter: unchanged

They hit what they guided and resolved Paladin as described. But ANANT dates still wobble, the promoter fee review produced nothing public, and the vessel is again being bought from the promoter group. Believe the big picture, check the small print.

Watch: related-party deals with the promoter, monsoon off-hire of three vessels, and fresh contracts for Seamec II, III and Princess after October.
