1. Snapshot

What the business does: Gujarat Kidney & Super Speciality runs a chain of mid-sized multi-speciality hospitals across central Gujarat (Vadodara, Godhra, Bharuch, Borsad, Anand). It started with kidney care (nephrology) and urology and has broadened into general secondary and tertiary hospital care. In plain terms: it earns money by treating patients across a group of about seven hospitals (roughly 490 beds), and it grows mostly by buying existing hospitals and taking controlling stakes in them rather than building everything from scratch. It listed on the stock market only in December 2025.

Number	Value	What it means in plain words
Market value (market cap)	₹1,024 crore	What the whole company is worth on the stock market today.
Share price	₹130 (band ₹98–₹148)	Currently near the middle of its post-listing range; IPO price was ₹114.
Sales FY26 (standalone)	₹40.1 crore	Sales of the parent hospital company alone — up about 14% on FY25's ₹35.2 crore.
Sales FY26 (group / consolidated)	≈₹82 crore	Sales of the whole group including bought hospitals — roughly double last year, because acquisitions were added in.
Net profit FY26 (group)	≈₹15.5 crore	What was left as profit for the year across the group — up about 65% on the prior year.
Operating margin (OPM)	~40%	Out of every ₹100 of sales, about ₹40 is operating profit before interest, tax and depreciation — a healthy hospital margin.
Price-to-earnings (P/E)	103	The share costs 103 times a year's profit — very expensive; the market is paying up front for a lot of future growth.
Return on capital (ROCE)	9.3%	The business earned about ₹9 of profit for every ₹100 of capital used — modest, and down sharply after the IPO flooded it with cash.
Debt	₹16 crore (low)	Borrowings are small versus ₹246 crore of shareholder money — the balance sheet is lightly geared.

Note: Screener's scraped financial tables are standalone (parent only). For an acquisition-led group the consolidated numbers (which fold in the bought hospitals) are the truer economic picture, so both are shown above.

2. Concall coverage

No concall (earnings call) transcripts were available on Screener — this report is based on a global web deep-dive.

The company only listed in December 2025, so it has essentially no history of holding investor earnings calls. The two questions below (is there an earnings trigger? has management been consistent?) are therefore answered from public sources rather than from call transcripts. Sources used:

- Screener.in company page and scraped financial tables (standalone).
- IPO prospectus summaries — Chittorgarh, JM Financial, Zerodha, Groww (IPO objects, business, risks).
- Quarterly result reports — ScanX, Bizzbuzz (Q2/Q3 FY26), Business Standard-style Q4 FY26 result wire.
- Whalesbook / corporate filings on auditor appointments, SEBI LODR ratification and the NCLT-approved restatement.

Latest update highlights — Q4 FY26 (quarter ended March 2026), group figures

- Revenue up sharply: Group quarterly sales ≈₹30.6 crore, up about 213% on the same quarter last year — meaning sales roughly tripled, driven mostly by newly-added (acquired) hospitals, not by the old hospitals alone.
- Profit jumped: Group quarterly net profit ≈₹5.0 crore, up about 294% year-on-year — profit almost quadrupled off a small base.
- But the parent's margin slipped: On the standalone (parent-only) numbers, operating margin fell to ~17% in the March quarter versus 40%+ earlier — a warning that the parent hospital's own profitability wobbled even as the group total grew.
- Cash being deployed: Most of the ₹250-crore IPO money raised in December is being spent on buying hospitals; ₹109 crore was still parked in investments at year-end, waiting to be deployed.
- Tone / signal: Management framing is expansion-and-acquisition; no formal guidance was given. Source: Q4 FY26 result wire and company filings.

2c. Business mix & capacity

- Domestic vs export: 100% domestic — this is a local Gujarat hospital chain with no exports. Plain read: every rupee of revenue comes from patients treated within India.
- Capacity: Roughly 490 beds across ~7 hospitals, of which ~445 are approved and ~340 operational. Plain read: there is meaningful headroom — a chunk of built beds are not yet running, so output can grow without heavy new spend, and management is adding more beds through acquisitions.
- Bed-level occupancy (utilization %) was not disclosed by the company in public filings — not guessed here.

3. Earning Trigger thesis

The headline driver: acquisition-led (buy-and-add) expansion of the hospital network, funded by the December 2025 IPO cash. The company raised roughly ₹250 crore and earmarked it to buy hospitals — Parekhs Hospital in Ahmedabad (₹77 crore), a new Vadodara hospital (₹30 crore), payments for Ashwini Medical Centre and Harmony Medicare, robotics equipment, and small pharmacy/subsidiary buys. The bet is simple: bolt more hospitals onto the group, and group revenue and profit rise fast. FY26 group sales roughly doubling to ~₹82 crore shows the machine is already working. The risk is that this growth is bought, not organic — the parent's own hospitals grew only ~14%, and margins at the parent slipped in Q4.

Trigger	What the record says	Evidence so far	Time horizon	Strength
Buy hospitals with IPO cash (Parekhs, Vadodara, Harmony, Ashwini)	₹250 cr raised; ~₹167 cr of IPO objects earmarked for acquisitions & a new hospital	Group FY26 sales ≈doubled to ₹82 cr; ₹109 cr still parked in investments awaiting deployment	1–3 years	Moderate — funded and starting to show, but unproven at scale
Renal / urology specialty as an anchor	Kidney care and urology are the founding, higher-value specialties	Healthy ~40% operating margin suggests a decent specialty mix	Ongoing	Moderate — real capability, but concentrated in one region
Organic growth of existing hospitals	Implied by scaling operational beds (340 of 445 approved)	Weak — standalone parent sales up only ~14% and Q4 margin fell to ~17%	1–2 years	Weak — the underlying (non-bought) growth is modest

4. Management Consistency scorecard

Because there are no earnings-call transcripts and the company has only ~6 months of listed history, a proper promised-vs-delivered track record does not yet exist. The table below therefore judges the short public record and the early governance signals.

Period	What was promised / stated	What actually happened	Verdict
IPO (Dec 2025)	Use ₹250 cr to acquire hospitals and expand the network	Acquisitions underway (Patel Pharmacy 51%, Bharuch subsidiary, Harmony); ₹109 cr still undeployed	Too-early
FY26 group results	Growth via scale and acquisitions	Group sales ≈doubled, profit up ~65% — delivered on the growth headline	Delivered (early)
FY22–FY24 accounts	Originally-filed financials & board reports	Company had to go to the NCLT (a company-law court) to revise its board reports and financial notes for FY22, FY23 and FY24	Missed / concern
Post-listing compliance (Feb–Mar 2026)	Meet stock-exchange disclosure rules (SEBI LODR)	Board had to ratify actions after an "inadvertent misunderstanding" of SEBI listing rules within weeks of listing	Missed / concern

Narrative drift & other signals: The growth story itself has been steady (acquire and scale). But three things temper trust: (1) the company had to restate three years of pre-IPO financials via the NCLT; (2) it tripped SEBI listing-disclosure rules within weeks of listing; and (3) institutions left fast — foreign investors (FIIs) cut their stake from 10.5% to 4.9% and domestic institutions from 1.7% to 0.6% in the very first quarter after listing, while the shareholder count fell from ~27,800 to ~18,300. For a newly-listed SME-scale company on a P/E of 103, that early institutional exit is a caution flag, not a confidence signal.

5. Bottom line — two verdicts

Durable earning trigger? → MAYBE

There is a concrete, funded driver — acquisition-led expansion paid for by ₹250 crore of IPO cash — and it is already showing up, with group revenue roughly doubling to ~₹82 crore in FY26. But it is unproven at scale and largely bought rather than organic: the parent's own hospitals grew only ~14% and their margin slipped to ~17% in the March quarter, and ₹109 crore of the raise is still un-deployed. Growth by acquisition can create value or destroy it depending on price paid and integration — too early to call it durable. Hence MAYBE, not YES.

Management consistent? → MAYBE

There is no earnings-call history and only about six months as a listed company, so a real promised-vs-delivered record does not yet exist — that alone rules out a YES. On the growth headline management has delivered so far. But the early governance signals are genuinely concerning: three years of pre-IPO financials had to be revised through the NCLT, the company tripped SEBI listing-disclosure rules within weeks of listing, and both foreign and domestic institutions cut their stakes hard in the first quarter after listing. Taken together these keep the verdict at MAYBE with a clear lean toward caution — watch the next few results and the deployment of the remaining IPO cash before trusting the story.
